Praise For An Outstanding Entertainment!

"Kurosawa is a master director. He can work up a melodramatic scene, such as that final street fight (as in "High Noon" or "Red River"), so that it gets you, kimonos and all. Or he can catch a close-up of his hero's battered face in a deep shadow, with one good eye lit by a beam of light that fires it with invincible savage defiance."

Crowther, New York Times

"Kurosawa's picture is seething with cut and slash exuberance, pu [REDACTED] delightful touches of hum [REDACTED] haven't fallen under the spell of this director yet should find YOJIMBO a lively introduction to his dazzling style."

Beckley, Herald Tribune

"Toshiro Mifune...there is no more mag-nificent symbol of masculinity—of strength and courage and nobility. He commands attention and wins respect by merely walking across the screen."

Gilbert, Daily Mirror

"Reflects the artistry of director Akira Kurosawa".
