Channel 4 Silent

Nosferatu, A Symphony of Horrors

Eine Symphonie des Grauens

Mon 17 at 19.30 Royal Festival Hall

To mark the centenary of Bram Stoker's Dracula, Channel Four presents this famous expressionist film with an exciting new score by James Bernard, of Hammer Horror fame. This gothic romance, freely adapted by Henrik Galeen, established its director FW Murnau as one of the great original talents of German cinema. The film itself has become a classic, unrivalled by any of the Dracula films that have followed it. This screening is the latest and most complete restoration by the Cineteca del Comune di Bologna and the München Filmmuseum, with all the original tints and expressionist titles in a new English translation, and is accompanied by the English Chamber Orchestra, conducted by Nic Raine. Presented by Photoplay Productions for Channel Four.

Tickets £7, £10, £14.50 and £18, available from RFH Box Office 0171 960 4242 and usual festival outlets.
