(In Swedish; English Titles)

Aside from a couple of disrobing scenes and two love sequences, "Affairs of a Model" has little to offer the American market. This Swedish import has too many production flaws, is overacted and has a silly story. Also, it has no names that mean anything on U.S. marquees.

Tale of a jobless artist's model who falls in love with a rising young sculptor, (he sees her only as a perfect model), is told at a pedestrian pace. Both model and artist center their efforts on selling Parliament on the idea of a national monument, but much extraneous matter is tossed in with excessive verbiage.

Maj.-Britt Nilsson, as the model, indicates some thespian potentialities as well as suitable chassis for the role. Alf Kjellin suffices as the young sculptor. Stig Jarrel and Olof Winnerstrand top an adequate supporting cast. Wear.
