JUDY-san,

Here's some information about Nemuri Kyoshiro (the lone-wolf Eurasian full-moon swordsman) you may want to read before viewing. I have the credits although the English credits on this print are much less complete than on the old print. Also, I haven't yet been able to determine which date is correct, 1962 or 1964. I'll try to find out.

FYI There was an earlier version, by Toho instead of Daiei, starring Tsuruta Koji. We happen to have that first version, Parts I and II (1956 and 1957). However, I looked at Part I and didn't like it as well as this film [so if you can't stand this one, think of what I saved you from]. I thought it odd that Alain Silver didn't mention the first version in his book. I guess the series with Ichikawa Raizo was much much more successful.

*The film we'll be showing is the first in the series,
" ADVENTURES OF NEMURI KYOSHIRO "
aka " NEMURI KYOSHIRO — THE FIGHT "*

(Nemuri Kyoshiro Shobu)
