A screwball comedy with a rockabilly touch provided by pop idol Mikel Erentxun. The plot centres around a group of male friends. One of them, after flunking his architectural final, in a drunken state writes an anonymous letter containing an assortment of insults to the examining professor. He seals the envelope which accidentally contains his failure notice thus giving away his identity. So the desperate attempt to recuperate the letter starts - nothing will do short of stealing the mailbox ! And from then on the whole block of apartments and their peculiar inhabitants get involved with the 'gang'. Especially funny is Rosa Maria Sarda whose role as the concierge has to be the best 'portera' on screen ever. Witty streetwise script and impressive direction from newcomer Alfonso Arandia, has produced the 'coolest' of comedies to come out of Spain this year. - Rosa Bosch.
