regarded as the premier award for TV direction, for a TV Dante. The first eight cantos which he made with Peter Greenaway in 1988, will be screened again in the New Year. Nicholas Savage, the RA's deputy librarian, is the recipient with Eileen Harris of the prestigious Banister Fletcher Award for their collaboration on British Architectural Books and Writers 1556-1785 (Cambridge University Press £85). The award is given for the best book of the year on architecture or the Fine Arts. The book has taken over 20 years of research and is the first comprehensive work on the subject.
